B. Root Cause Analysis (where required)
1. The lab hasn't set up a system to control and manage external documents, like standards and guidelines. They've focused only on internal documents and didn't realize that external documents need to be controlled in the same way to stay compliant and up-to-date. 2. The root cause of this issue is that the lab has not set a clear rule or process for how often documents should be reviewed. The focus was more on the CEO's approval rather than defining a specific review schedule.
C. Proposed Action	Target Date:	17-02-2025
Corrective action for shortcomings on both the NCs has been taken. Lab has revised Master list (QCL-FRM-20.02) and controlled the external origin documents. The lab has revised the procedure (QCL-LSP-07) and defined the frequency for document review.

3W2H / 5W2H	Phenomenon of Problem / Question	Explanation / Answer
WHY	Why does the lab not control external origin documents?	The lab hasn't implemented a formal process for managing external documents.
WHY	Why hasn't the lab implemented a formal process?	There is no specific policy or procedure in place to address the control of external origin documents.
WHY	Why is there no policy or procedure for controlling external documents?	The lab has focused primarily on internal documents and overlooked the need for external document management.
WHY	Why has the lab focused only on internal documents?	The lab may not have recognized the importance of controlling external documents or may have assumed they are automatically up to date or compliant.
WHY	Why has the lab not recognized the importance of controlling external documents?	There might be a gap in training or awareness regarding the importance of managing external documents in line with quality standards.
How	How can the lab implement control over external origin documents?	The lab should develop a procedure that defines how to receive, review,

3W2H / 5W2H	Phenomenon of Problem / Question	Explanation / Answer
WHY	Why is the document review frequency not defined?	Because the lab has not established a clear frequency for document reviews.
WHY	Why has the lab not established a clear frequency?	The lab assumes the CEO's approval is sufficient without specifying the timing of reviews.
WHY	Why does the lab assume the CEO's approval is sufficient?	There is no policy or procedure in place to outline how often documents should be reviewed.
WHY	Why is there no policy or procedure for review frequency?	The lab did not prioritize creating a procedure for document review cycles.
WHY	Why did the lab not prioritize this procedure?	The lab may have been focused on other compliance areas or overlooked the need for a formal review cycle.
How	How can the lab address the lack of defined document review frequency?	By implementing a formal procedure that outlines the frequency of document reviews, such as annually, bi-annually, or as needed.

How	How can the lab ensure compliance with this frequency?	By integrating the document review frequency into the lab's quality management system and assigning responsibility for periodic reviews, possibly involving the CEO's team for timely sign-off
Root Cause: The root cause of this issue is that the lab has not set a clear rule or process for how often documents should be reviewed. The focus was more on the CEO's approval rather than defining a specific review schedule.

5. Procedure5.1 Levels of Documents

- a. QC LAB has defined four levels of documents:

- b. In addition to above documents, there are few external documents as well:
- i. Standard Test Methods
 - ii. Equipment Manuals

These standards/procedures of external origins do not need approval by the competent authority at QC LAB as these are already approved by their originating agencies.

5.2 Approval of Documents

- a. A new document is requested through Document Change Request Form, and first reviewed for any shortcomings or changes, before final approval. Documents are officially considered as implemented after approval of designated approving authority, as follows:

Type of Document	Approved by
Quality System Manual	Chief Executive Officer
Quality System Procedures	Chief Executive Officer
Standard Operating Procedures	Chief Executive Officer
Work Instructions	QCM
Quality Objectives	Chief Executive Officer
Quality Policy	Chief Executive Officer
Job Descriptions	Chief Executive Officer

- b. Above documents are entered in Master list of documents along with their revision number.
- c. Master list of Documents includes following

- v. Retention Period of the document/form is defined here (this is mostly applicable on form for record keeping purposes)
- vi. Name of the sections or departments where the document has been distributed, under Documents Distribution
- vii. New Issue highlights the serial number of the list, where the revision of the document is listed)

5.3 Document Coding

a. Acronym used in Document coding

- i. QC LAB followed by type of document, following are the types of documents

Code	Type
QCL	Quality Control Lab
LSP	Lab System Procedure
FRM	Form
ORG	Organization Chart
SOP	Standard Operating Procedure
WI	Work Instruction
EXT	Document of External Origin
JD	Job Description

b. Document numbering

- i. For identification of all documents and records, the company adopts unique combination of Alphanumeric and special characters as described following.
- ii. For all the documents in level I, II and III following is the scheme:

QCL/BBB/N where

BBB	Type of document i.e. POL, LSP etc.,
N	Serial no of document starting for 001 and so on

- iii. For example, in Management review the document code is QCL-LSP-11. BBB is LSP as this is a LAB system procedure and N is 11 as it is procedure no 11.

	CONTROL OF DOCUMENTS MASTER NO.	Doc. No.	QCL-LSP-07
		Issue Date	01-02-2025
